The 10c. on laid paper is catalogued by Stanly Gibbons as being issued in 1867, Scott however places the date at 1873. Which of these authorties are correct?, is it a distinct issue or an error in the paper?, we are inclined to accept the latter view owing to its scarcity.

In 1873 through a change in the postal rates, we find a new issue with a complete change of values, these are unwatermarked, perforated 12, and of the following denominations:-

1c. "Balcarce", printed in gray violet, red violet, violet, and purple, the violet being the scarcer.

4d. "Moreno" in sepia, brown, and red brown.

Wood mines are found in Upper Tonquin, China. The wood was originally a pine forest which the earth swallowed in some cataclysm. Some of the trees are a yard in diameter. They lie in a slanting direction and in sandy soils, which cover them at a depth of about eight yards. As the top branches are well preserved, it is thought that the geological convulsion which buried them cannot have occurred very long ago. The wood furnished by these timber mines is practipally imperishable and the Chinese gladly buy it for coffins.

NEW ZEALAND

In the N. Z. Press of 27. 10. 09. appears the following:- "A new issue of postage and revenue stamps will be ready for sale on the afternoon preceding the King's Birthday. The range of values is from ½d. to 1/-, and excepting the 1d. stamp each will bear the portrait of the King. The necessity of the new issue is shown by the substitution of "The Dominion of New Zealand" for "New Zealand". With the exception of the 4d. stamp, which is now of an orange color, all the stamps within the values named are of the old colors, so that the public may not be confused. The new portrait of the King is considered to be the finest that has yet been produced, and in the case of most of the stamps, has been printed from steel engravings by the Reass process of printing. The plates were manufactured in London, and the whole of the printing was executed in the Government Printing Office. The workmanship generally is very fine, gumming, perforation, and general appearence being highly satisfactory. The 2d½., 9d., 2/-, and 5/- remain the same as before in design.

We thank our subscribers and friends for their great kindness in waiting so long for a copy of the D. P., other buisness prevented it appearing sooner. This paper is not printed by a printer for hobby, but has been published the last six years in order to keep the Hobby alive in Canada. Do we deserve your support?.
